

Ride to Morton's BMW Fredericksburg, Virginia 14 April 2007

A group of 5 club members gathered at the Burger King on Route 17 just south of I-64. We were reminded to have our toll money available for the ride across the Coleman Bridge. Once ready we departed as scheduled at 8:30 am. We went up Route 17 and crossed the Coleman Bridge and then on to Route 14. I know there were at least two more turns but can't remember them. There was some light rain but it was light. The ride was fun. Some of the members turned on electric jackets to take off the chill. After arriving at Morton's it started to rain. Good thing we were wearing our rain gear. I met a few riders that had summer mesh jackets on and were looking for a rain jacket.

Waiting for any last minute riders.

Getting ready to go.

Parking near vendor trailers

Four of our club members departed after lunch when the rain let up. We had some drips every once in a while but no hard rain. We rode home down Route 17 and it was nice to cross the Coleman Bridge without any toll. As we came down Route 17 from Yorktown two members turned on Fort Eustis Blvd to head toward the Express way and the ride to the south side. The remaining two headed down Route 17 and home on the north side.

It may have been cool but it was a great ride. The price of gas on the way south was actually cheaper than south of Yorktown.
